CENTO FOOD SERVICE

For more than 55 years, Cento Fine Foods has continued to exemplify the highest of industry standards by bringing only the finest Italian food products to America's kitchens. Cento items satisfy even the most demanding needs of finest chefs and food service chains alike. Our experience in retail translates to our food service line, with our products held at the highest of standards and following the same quality control methods of items that consumers know and trust.

Cento Fine Foods Food Service items are produced under the strictest food safety guidelines, with specific proprietary formulas that have been tested for optimum performance in food service environments. In our quality assurance lab and test kitchen, our quality assurance team and executive chef work together to ensure consistent, premium quality product. Cento products are readily available and stocked in distributors throughout the country, and our unparalleled logistics allow our fleet of trucks to deliver product weekly.

Our sustainability initiatives ensure our products are produced without compromising our environment or resources for future generations, and our traceability program offers transparency that allows us to easily track items throughout each step in the supply chain. Through our partners Trace Register and PAC Traceability, this program allows consumers to trace their products back to their origin, as well as adds another step of quality control to ensure authenticity.

Find My Field[®]

Discover Traceability

Find My Field[®] is powered by PAC Traceability[®], the driving force behind the certification of our San Marzano Tomatoes. Each can is labeled with a lot code as well as a best before date. These lot codes allow us to trace every can to the exact farm where the tomatoes were picked and ensure that each crop is up to our standards.
